2019 Sustainability Report Reinforces the Strategic Importance of Responsible Oil and Natural Gas Development While Investing in Local Communities

EL DORADO, Ark.--(BUSINESS WIRE)--Apr. 9, 2019-- Murphy Oil Corporation (NYSE: MUR) today announced that it released its 2019 Sustainability Report. The inaugural online report provides a review of the company's performance in governance, environmental stewardship, workforce development, workplace health and safety, and community engagement.

HIGHLIGHTS FROM THE REPORT

- Safeguarding people conducting business in a manner that protects the health, safety and security of everyone who works for and alongside Murphy.
- Protecting the environment and practicing conservation by committing to minimize environmental impact through comprehensive policies, resource efficiency, and emission reduction programs.
- Investing in and engaging with local communities where Murphy employees live and work with the commitment to making a lasting difference.

"I am proud of our inaugural Sustainability Report as it brings together a review of Murphy's obligation to developing oil and natural gas reserves in a responsible and sustainable manner. Sustainability practices underpin our strategy and are carried out in our operations because they create long-term value for our shareholders and make a positive difference in the communities in which we operate and the world around us," commented Roger W. Jenkins, President and Chief Executive Officer.
